CREDENTIALS: Appropriate credentials are required for access to the Wachovia Center and should be kept visible at all times. Season passes are issued to those media members who regularly cover the Sixers. Media members wishing to cover a single game must contact the Philadelphia 76ers Communications staff at least 24 hours prior to the intended game. Passes are issued on a space-available basis for all single-game requests. First-time requests must be in written form on company letterhead and received by mail, or by fax at (215) 339-7632. Credentials will be left at the Press Entrance (located on the North side of the Main Concourse Level) and can be picked up two hours prior to tip-off on game nights.

ENTRANCE: Media members attending a Sixers game at the Wachovia Center should enter the building through the Press Entrance, located on the North side of the Main Concourse Level.

PARKING: Parking passes are issued prior to the season to those media members who regularly cover the team. Media members wishing to cover a single game, and requiring parking, must contact the Philadelphia 76ers Communications staff at least 48 hours prior to game day. Media members attending Sixers games should park in Lot F, located between the Wachovia Center and the Wachovia Spectrum, along the 11th Street side.

PRESS ROOM: The press room is located at the Northeast corner of the Event Floor Level. Appropriate credentials are required for press room access. The press room consists of a dining facility and a working press area. Food, game notes, press kits, storage space and working space are available to the media in the press lounge during the course of an event. Food and beverages are served two hours before tip-off time. Refreshments are available during the game. A nominal fee of $5.00 is charged for a pre-game meal.

SEATING: Home and visiting television and radio will be seated at courtside. All other media will be assigned seats on the baseline on a space-available basis.

STILL & VIDEO PHOTOGRAPHERS: Photo work space is limited and your cooperation is appreciated. Still and video photographers are limited to the baselines at each end of the court. In accordance with the NBA policy, no hard-back chairs are permitted courtside and all photographers must keep clear of the escape lanes on both sides of the basket stanchions. Rubber lens shades are required for all still photographers who are credentialed to shoot a 76ers game.

LOCKER ROOM ACCESS: The locker rooms are located on the west side (Broad Street) of the Event Level (Level One). In accordance with NBA policy, the 76ers locker room will be open one and a half hours prior and close 45 minutes prior to tip-off. Following a ten-minute cooling off period, the locker room will open after the game has been completed. Only credentialed media are allowed in the locker room and no autographs are permitted. All media members are asked to have their passes visible at all times while in the Wachovia Center.

GAME NOTES AND STATS: Game notes for both teams will be available in the press room two hours prior to tip-off. For visiting media, game notes, credentials, programs and recent clips will be delivered to their hotel as early as possible upon arrival in Philadelphia. Play-by-play, quarterly boxes, halftime boxes, final notes and quotes will be delivered to all media locations as quickly as possible. Stat monitors are available along press row as well as in the press room.

INFORMATION HOTLINE: Media members can access the latest information on the 76ers 24 hours a day through a special automated hotline. The menu of options will include: team news, injury updates, and practice and shootaround times. Please contact the 76ers Communications office for the hotline number.

Zumoff, a Philadelphia native, was named play-by-play announcer on Aug. 17, 1994. He has won an Emmy for best sports play-by-play broadcaster seven of the past 11 years.

Mix joined the Sixers broadcast team in 1987-88 analyzing road games on WPHL TV-17. COMCAST-SPECTACOR

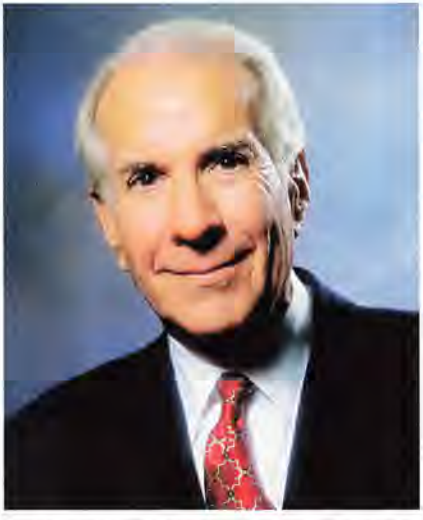
ED SNIDER

CHAIRMAN



Ed Snider is one of the true giants of the sports and entertainment industry. His career has been guided by the principle that one must be constantly moving forward in order to succeed, and it's that philosophy that marks his leadership of Comcast-Spectacor today.

Ed first emerged as a leader in Philadelphia's sports business in 1966 when he founded the Philadelphia Flyers. He was the driving force behind the building of the Spectrum, and assumed control of the building in 1971. In 1974, Ed created Spectacor as a management company to oversee the Flyers and Spectrum. Over the next 20 years, Spectacor grew to be a national force in sports and entertainment. Under Ed's guidance, Spectacor started or acquired nearly a dozen businesses over the 20-year period from 1974 through 1994. Many of these enterprises were sold at a time when each was the industry leader in its field.

Perhaps nothing demonstrates Ed's perseverance and desire to succeed like the development of the Wachovia Center, a $210 million state-of-the-art arena completed in 1996. In the summer of 2000, the facility gained national prominence as the host facility for the Republican National Convention. Today, the Wachovia Center and the Wachovia Spectrum comprise the most active sports and entertainment complex in the world.

In 1996, Ed merged Spectacor into Comcast Corporation, creating Comcast-Spectacor. The new venture initially consisted of the Philadelphia Flyers, Philadelphia 76ers, Wachovia Center, Wachovia Spectrum and Philadelphia Phantoms. Comcast-Spectacor then joined with the Philadelphia Phillies to form Comcast SportsNet, one of the highest-rated regional sports networks in the country.

In the past four years, Comcast-Spectacor has developed the Flyers Skate Zone, a series of regional ice skating rinks; Global Spectrum, an international facilities management company; Ovations Food Services, a national concessions company; Patron Solutions, a company which specializes in providing innovative technological solutions for box office management, event management and customer communications, and three minor league baseball teams, all of which are affiliates of the Baltimore Orioles. These entities all represent components of Ed's vision: take what you do well and grow it.

Ed's successes have been recognized by his peers. He was elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame in 1988 and serves on the NHL's Executive Committee. He is a recipient of the Lester Patrick Award for outstanding service to hockey in the United States and has been elected to the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame and the Flyers Hall of Fame.

In February of 2001, Ed received Temple University's First Annual Sports Leadership Award presented by The Fox School of Business and Management. In May 1999, he was selected by Philadelphia Daily News readers as Philly's Greatest mover and shaker of the millennium in mail-in and online balloting. In December 1999, he received the Anti-Defamation League's prestigious Americanism Award. In 1985, Ed received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from MCP Hahnemann University and in May of 1999, he received the same from Thomas Jefferson Hospital. He is also a Benefactor and Advisory Board Member of the Sol C. Snider Entrepreneurial Center of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. Other Board memberships include Board of Overseers of the Wharton School, the Isadore Brodsky Institute for Cancer and Blood Diseases at MCP Hahnemann University, Institute for The Objectivist Center and the Simon Wiesenthal Center.

Ed resides in suburban Philadelphia. His children include daughters Lindy, Tina, and Sarena and sons Craig, Jay, and Samuel, as well as 13 grandchildren.

BILLY KING

PRESIDENT & GENERAL MANAGER

Named team president on May 26, 2003, Billy King enters his seventh season with the Philadelphia 76ers, and first complete season as the president and general manager of the organization. The youngest general manager in the NBA, King oversees all aspects of basketball operations, as well as all facets of business operations. He continues to serve as the 76ers point man for all trades, player procurement and player contract negotiations.

During his seven-year tenure King has engineered numerous off-season transactions, but the summer of 2003 was busier than normal. After conducting an extensive search for a head coach, King announced the promotion of assistant Randy Ayers on June 20, 2003. King continued to reshape the Sixers squad with a blockbuster, four-team trade that landed two-time All-Star Glenn Robinson and forward/center Marc Jackson in Philadelphia. King also successfully negotiated the re-signing of free agents Kenny Thomas, who was acquired from Houston in a three-team trade in December, and Derrick Coleman, a 13-year NBA veteran. With the re-signing of Coleman, the Sixers will begin the 2003-04 season with three former No. 1 draft picks on the roster (Allen Iverson and Glenn Robinson)

King, 37 (born Jan. 23, 1966), joined the 76ers on June 2, 1997, as vice president of basketball administration, a role in which he served as the point person for basketball operations. Less than a year later, he was promoted to general manager, and on April 5, 2000, he signed a new multi-year contract with the team.

Prior to King's arrival in Philadelphia, the Sixers posted six-consecutive sub-.500 records, dating back to the 1991-92 season. During his seven-year tenure, the Sixers have made drastic improvements in the win-loss column. In his first season, the squad posted a nine-game improvement, sixth-best in the NBA and tied for seventh-best in franchise history (22-60 in 1996-97 to 31-51 in 1997-98). In 1998-99, Philadelphia earned its first NBA Playoff appearance since 1990-91 ending a six-year drought and advanced to the Eastern Conference Semifinals in 1998-99 and 1999-2000. The 76ers captured their first Atlantic Division Title on the heels of a 56-26 season in 2000-01 and went on to capture their first Eastern Conference Championship since 1983 to advance to the 2001 NBA Finals. The 2002-03 season marked the 76ers fifth-straight trip to the playoffs, the longest since a 12-year span from 1978 to 1987, and the fourth-straight season with 40 or more wins.

Before joining the 76ers, King served as an assistant coach for the Indiana Pacers under Larry Brown for four seasons. He joined the professional ranks after spending four seasons as an assistant at Illinois State University under current-76er assistant bench coach Bob Bender. He also spent one year as a color analyst for ESPN's basketball coverage of the Ohio Valley Conference.

During his collegiate career, King was an outstanding defensive player on Duke University's nationally ranked teams in the late 1980s and received the Henry Iba Corinthian National Defensive Player of the Year award following his senior season. King helped the Blue Devils to a 112-27 record, an average of 28 wins per season as Duke went to the Final Four twice, won the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship and two ACC Tournament titles. In 1987, he helped the USA Basketball Men's World University Games silver-medal squad to a 7-1 record, with its only loss coming against a Drazen Petrovic-led Yugoslavia team in the gold medal game.

King currently serves on the USA Basketball's Senior National Team Committee and was named Treasurer for USA Basketball's Executive Committee. He is also a member of the NBA and WNBA competition committees.

King has been honored and recognized by numerous organizations for his dedication and commitment to success. In July 2000, he was honored as the Sports Executive of the Year at the Rainbow Sports Awards, reflecting not only his accomplishments in the sports industry, but also the grace, dignity, commitment and humanity that he exemplifies. In 2001, Street and Smith's Business Journal named him one the industries "Forty under 40." He was also inducted into Duke University's Hall of Honor on Dec. 2, 2001, in its charter group. In May 2003, Sports Illustrated named King, along with fellow 76ers Sonny Hill and Allen Iverson, one of the "101 Most Influential Minorities in Sports," a list that included "men and women that are reshaping the sports industry and opening doors through which others will follow." King also was honored by the African-American Ethnic Sports Hall of Fame as the NBA Executive of the Year in July 2003.

A political science major at Duke, King follows national and local politics closely. He is also a movie buff and previously hosted his own movie review show for WBNQ-Radio in Bloomington, Ill., titled "Kings Clips." King resides in suburban Philadelphia with his Neopolitan Mastiff, "Caesar."

RANDY AYERS

HEAD COACH

On June 20, 2003, Philadelphia 76ers President and General Manager Billy King announced Randy Ayers as the 18th head coach in the history of the franchise. Ayers assumes his new role after spending six seasons as a member of the Sixers coaching staff. As Larry Brown's top assistant, Ayers helped guide the 76ers to five-straight NBA Playoff appearances including a trip to the Finals in 2001. Known for his pressure-defense mindset and up-tempo style, Ayers learned under the likes of Pete Gaudet, a Mike Krzyzewski assistant, at the U.S. Military Academy, Eldon Miller and Gary Williams at Ohio State, and Brown. He joined the team as the physical conditioning coach in June 1997 before earning a spot as an assistant coach in July 1998.

Prior to arriving in Philadelphia, Ayers, 47, spent the previous eight seasons as head coach at The Ohio State University. His impressive resume includes an overall record of 124-108, four post-season appearances and National Coach of the Year honors in 1991 by both The Associated Press and Black Coaches Association. Ayers guided his 1991 squad to a school-record 27 victories and its first of two-consecutive Big Ten championships. He received Big Ten Coach of the Year honors in both 1991 and 1992 after directing the Buckeyes to a school-record 15 conference victories in each season.

As head coach of Ohio State, Ayers coached current NBA players Jim Jackson and Laurence Funderburke, both of the Sacramento Kings, and Portland's Derek Anderson, along with Rickey Dudley, a tight end for the NFL's Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Under Ayers' tutelage, Jackson went on to win Big Ten Freshman of the Year honors, followed by conference Player of the Year honors the next two seasons. Jackson also was a two-time All-American and United Press International College Player of the Year as a junior, before entering the NBA Draft as an early-entry candidate.

Ayers spent six years as an assistant coach at Ohio State, including three years under current Maryland head coach Gary Williams and three years under Eldon Miller, before being promoted to head coach in 1989. He arrived in Columbus after two years as an assistant coach at the U.S. Military Academy, where he coordinated the team's recruiting. Prior to his stint at West Point, he spent two years as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

The Ohio Player of the Year as a senior at Springfield North High School, Ayers went on to an impressive collegiate career at Miami (Ohio). A four-year starter and an all-conference performer for the Red Hawks under head coach Darrell Hedric, Ayers finished his career with 1,203 points (11.5 per game) and 667 rebounds (6.4 per game), leading Miami (Ohio) to back-to-back Mid-American Conference championships in 1977 and 1978 and an NCAA Tournament appearance during his senior season.

A 1978 graduate of the school with a degree in Education, he later earned his Master of Education degree from Miami (Ohio) in 1981 after spending two seasons as graduate assistant for Hedric at his alma mater.

The native of Springfield, Ohio, was drafted by the Chicago Bulls in the third round of the 1978 NBA Draft but was released on the final cut. Prior to starting his coaching career, he played a year of professional basketball in Reno, Nev., in the Western Basketball Association (WBA) for the Reno Bighorns and was named to the WBA All-Star Team as a second team selection.

Recognized for his coaching prowess, Ayers joined Gene Keady at the 1991 Pan Am Games, where the U.S. team won a bronze medal. In the summer of 1993, Ayers rejoined USA Basketball as an assistant to P.J. Carlesimo for Team USA, during a European tour, a team that included current-76er Aaron McKie. Ayers also served as the head coach for the Big Ten All-Star Team for a tour of Japan in June of 1995, a team that posted a perfect 7-0 record, the first time in conference history.

Randy and his wife, Carol, have two sons, Ryan (16) and Cameron (11) and reside in suburban Philadelphia.

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT & ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

Tony DiLeo begins his 14th season with the 76ers basketball operations department. After spending the last four seasons as the Sixers director of player personnel, DiLeo was promoted to senior vice president/assistant general manager in September 2003.

DiLeo will continue to assist President and General Manager Billy King with player procurement through his evaluation of amateur and professional talent, and will supervise the team's draft effort and college and professional scouting systems.

Formerly the team's director of scouting and assistant coach, DiLeo has extensive experience in international basketball, both as a player and coach. ASSISTANT BENCH COACH

Bob Bender, who was promoted to assistant bench coach on July 10, 2003, enters his second season with the Philadelphia 76ers. Bender joined the 76ers staff on July 11, 2002, after 13 seasons as a college head coach and served as the Sixers assistant coach/player development for the 2002-03 season.

The 1996 Pac-10 Coach of the Year, Bender directed the University of Washington to a 116-142 record during his nine-year tenure (1994-2001), a mark that ranks fourth all-time among Washington coaches for career victories. Bender guided the Huskies to four consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament from 1996 to 1999, a feat no other Washington head coach previously accomplished.

Bender's 1998 Husky squad, which featured current-Sixer Todd MacCulloch, posted a 20-10 (.667) record, posting the school's finest winning percentage since 1985. Bender began his head coaching career with a four-year tenure at Illinois State (1990-93) where he was 60-57, earning two Missouri Valley Conference championships, one conference tournament title and an NCAA Tournament berth in 1990. Bender was named MVC Coach of the Year and Illinois Collegiate Coach of the Year in 1992, as the Redbirds posted an 18-11 record overall and a 14-4 mark in conference play to share the regular season crown.

Prior to his inaugural head coaching assignment at Illinois State, Bender was an assistant under Mike Krzyzewski at Duke (1983-89). The Blue Devils qualified for the NCAA Tournament in each of Bender's six seasons on the staff, including four trips to the Final Four. While at Duke, Bender tutored Billy King and later worked with him at Illinois State.

A graduate of Duke in 1980, Bender has the distinction of being the only individual to play on two different teams in an NCAA Championship game. He was a freshman on Bobby Knight's undefeated 1976 Indiana team and played point guard at Duke from 1977-80, including an appearance in the 1978 title game against Kentucky. Bender was drafted by the San Diego Clippers in the sixth round before his senior year, but did not play.

Bender and his wife, Alice, have a 7-year-old daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and a 5-year-old son, Robert Michael III.

ALEX ENGLISH

ASSISTANT BENCH COACH

Basketball Hall-of-Famer Alex English joins the Sixers coaching staff in 2003-04 after serving as the director of player development and an assistant coach for the Atlanta Hawks in 2002-03.

Elected to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility in 1997, English's desire to enter the coaching profession led to his stint with the North Charleston Lowgators in the National Basketball Developmental League (NBDL) in 2001-02. In his first season as head coach, he guided the team to a 36-20 record and a berth in the finals of the first NBDL championship.

Following a career in which he became the Nuggets' all-time leader in scoring (21,645) and assists (3,679), English was honored by his old franchise on March 2, 1993, with the retirement of his uniform No. 2. In 10 of his 11 seasons in Denver (1979-90), he averaged better than 21 points per game, and in eight of those seasons, he scored more than 25 per contest. He helped guide the Nuggets to nine straight playoff appearances from 1981-82 to 1989-90, including a berth in the 1985 Western Conference Finals, and finished with a career playoff scoring average of 24.4 points per game in 10 playoff appearances (including the 1977-78 season with Milwaukee).

The eight-time NBA All-Star was selected to the all-league second team three times (1982, 1983 and 1986), and in 1988, he was presented with the league's J. Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award for his dedication to community service. The NBA's 11th all-time leading scorer with 25,613 points, English finished with career averages of 21.5 points, 5.5 rebounds and 3.6 assists.

Selected by Milwaukee in the second round (23rd overall) of the 1976 NBA Draft, English played two years for the Bucks (1976-77 and 1977-78) and the Indiana Pacers (1978-79 and 1979-80), before being traded to Denver on Feb. 1, 1980, along with a first round pick for George McGinnis. After 11 years in Denver, English played his final NBA season with the Dallas Mavericks (1990-91).

A four-year starter at the University of South Carolina, English averaged 17.8 points and 9.6 rebounds per game, and in his senior year, he averaged 22.6 points and 10.3 rebounds. He earned an undergraduate degree in interdisciplinary studies at USC and has also parlayed his basketball career on the movie screen by appearing in several TV shows and movies.

In 1985, he convinced fellow NBA players to donate their shares from the All-Star game to Interaction Ethiopia, a relief fund assisting with effort in famine stricken Ethiopia. English visited the area during the summer of 1985. During the 2003 off-season, English returned to Africa with a contingency of NBA players as a camp director for the Africa 100 Camp.

He and his wife Vanessa have six children, Jade-Li, Alex, Jr., William, James, Joseph and Imani.

CHRIS FORD

ASSISTANT BENCH COACH

Chris Ford joins the Sixers as an assistant bench coach for the 2003-04 season with 26-years of NBA experience – 10 years as a player, nine years as a head coach and seven seasons as an assistant coach. During his NBA career, Ford has earned three NBA Championship rings – one as player (Boston, 1981) and two as an assistant coach (Boston, 1984 and 1986).

Ford, 54, has served as a head coach with the Boston Celtics (1990-91 to 1994-95), Milwaukee Bucks (1996-97 to 1997-98) and L.A. Clippers (1998-99 to 1999-2000) and ranks among the top-50 winningest coaches in NBA history with 311 career victories (311-358, .465). Most recently, Ford served as the head coach at Brandeis University (2001-02 to 2002-03).

On June 12, 1990, Ford began his head-coaching career with the Celtics. In his first season, he guided the Celtics to 55-26 (.683) en route to becoming just the fourth first-year head coach to coach in the NBA All-Star game. The Celtics – which featured Hall-of-Famers Larry Bird, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale – captured back-to-back Atlantic Division Championships in 1990-91 and 1991-02. Ford compiled an overall record of 222-188 (.541), leading Boston to the playoffs in four of the five seasons.

Ford continued his NBA head-coaching with Milwaukee Bucks. In two seasons, he guided the Bucks to a 69-95 (.421) record and then spent two seasons with the L.A. Clippers, where he posted a 20-75 (.211) record.

Selected in the second round (17th overall) of the 1972 NBA Draft by Detroit, Ford played seven seasons with the Pistons (1972-73 to 1978-79) and averaged 8.5 points, 3.5 assists and 3.5 rebounds in 485 games with Detroit. He was traded to Boston on Oct. 19, 1978 three games into the 1978-79 season and earned his first championship ring in 1981 when he helped the Celtics defeat the Houston Rockets in six games.

Ford, who averaged 9.2 points, 3.4 assists and 3.0 rebounds in 10 seasons, connected on 37.5 percent (126-336) from three-point range, and may best be known for hitting the first three-point basket in NBA history in a game played at the Boston Garden on Oct. 12, 1979.

A native of Atlantic City, N.J., Ford has strong ties to the Delaware Valley. He attended Holy Spirit High School (Absecon, N.J.) and went on to play at Villanova University (1968-72), where he graduated in 1972 with a degree in business.

He and his wife Kathy have four children: Chris, Katie, Anthony and Michael.

CHRIS JENT

ASSISTANT COACH/PLAYER DEVELOPMENT

Chris Jent joins the Sixers staff as an assistant coach for the 2003-04 season. A former player under Head Coach Randy Ayers at Ohio State, Jent's duties will consist of assisting the players in their on- and off-court development, as well as assisting the coaching staff in all facets of game preparation, decisions and planning.

Jent, 33, comes to the Sixers with 10 seasons of experience as a professional basketball player, including two seasons in the NBA. A member of the 1993-94 NBA Champion Houston Rockets, Jent also played for the New York Knicks during the 1996-97 season as well as internationally in Australia, Italy, Spain and Greece.

In addition, the native of Sparta, N.J., played five seasons in the CBA, including the 1992-93 and 1994-95 seasons for the Rapid City Thrillers under the guidance of Head Coach Eric Musselman, the current head coach for the Golden State Warriors.

During his four-year career at Ohio State (1988-92), Jent scored 1,007 points in 123 games and helped the Buckeyes to an 89-38 record. Described as a prolific three-point shooter, Jent connected on 38.2 percent (112-293) from three-point range and his 112 three-point field goals ranks seventh all-time in the Buckeyes record books.

Ayers served as an assistant on the Buckeyes' coaching staff during Jent's freshman season and was elevated to head coach for Jent's final three seasons in Columbus, Ohio. Jent teamed up with current NBA players Jim Jackson and Laurence Funderburke, and helped lead the Buckeyes to three consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances and back-to-back Big Ten Championships.

Jent and his wife, Alice, have a 7-year old son, Jimmy, and currently reside in Stamford, Conn., where Jent served as the head coach for the West Hill High School varsity basketball team in 2002-03.

DAVE COSKEY

COMCAST-SPECTACOR TEAM MARKETING & COMMUNICATIONS GROUP PRESIDENT

With more than 22 years experience in the fields of sports and entertainment, Dave Coskey, the president of the Comcast-Spectacor Team Marketing and Communications Group, has played a large part in the resurgence of the 76ers organization not just in Philadelphia, but in the NBA. He was elevated to his current position on May 26, 2003, and will now lead the marketing, communications and community relations activities of all Comcast-Spectacor teams, including the 76ers, the Philadelphia Flyers, and the Philadelphia Phantoms.

During his tenure with the 76ers, Coskey has played an integral role in the area of attendance enhancement. The team has increased its overall attendance by 64.9 percent over the past seven seasons. In 2001-02, the Sixers had franchise records for total attendance (842,976), average attendance (20,560) and sellouts (25). With their march to the NBA Finals in 2001, the Sixers surpassed the million-fan mark for the first time in its history. In 2002-03, Philadelphia sold-out 14 games and ranked fourth in the NBA for home attendance with an average 19,685 fans per game. In the season-finale against Washington (4/16/03), a crowd of 21,127 fans witnessed Michael Jordan's final NBA game, the second largest home crowd ever.

Much of this success can be attributed to the creativity that has become a cornerstone of the Sixers' marketing and promotional efforts. Innovative giveaways like the Allen Iverson Celebriduck and the 76ers Pet Rock, extraordinary game presentation, and a high-energy atmosphere at the Wachovia Center have all contributed to a great environment for Sixers fans.

In the midst of his second stint with the Sixers, Coskey previously served as the team's director of public relations and assistant director of marketing from 1986-1988. In his return to the organization, Coskey served as the team's senior vice president and was later promoted to executive vice president in July 2001, a position he held for the last two seasons.

Coskey served as vice president of marketing at Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino before becoming a principal in MediaWorks Communications, an award-winning advertising, public relations and video production firm located in Linwood, NJ.

The recipient of numerous awards for achievement in the fields of advertising and public relations while at MediaWorks, Coskey played a key role in the marketing of Seles-Navratilova tennis match, named sports marketing event of the year in 1995 by Brandweek Magazine, as well as several of the top-grossing pay-per-view television events of all-time including Holyfield vs. Foreman and the Howard Stern New Year's Eve special.

A graduate of Villanova University, Coskey received the "Alumni Medal for Outstanding Achievement" from the College of Arts and Sciences in 2001 and is the author of Faces & Places From Avalon's Past. He and his wife Monica currently reside in Avalon, N.J., along with their three sons David, Michael and Stephen.

When she was elevated to vice president of marketing in August 1998, Price became one of only 18 female vice presidents in the NBA. After being named the team's senior vice president in August 2001, Price was promoted to her current position in June 2003 and will coordinate the day-to-day activities of the 76ers business operation closely with Sixers President and General Manager Billy King. In her expanded role, Price will continue to assist in overseeing the team's marketing and communications department, which includes Communications, Community Relations and New Media, as well as game operations.

He will also be integral in managing the daily day-to-day operation along with Billy King and Lara Price.

In addition to his many financial responsibilities, Speiser also serves as a special adviser to 76ers President and General Manager Billy King on matters regarding the complexities of the NBA salary cap. His extensive knowledge of the Collective Bargaining Agreement, including the salary cap and player contracts, has made Speiser an invaluable resource to the basketball operations department.

Prior to joining the 76ers in August 1992, Speiser spent nine years working for McDonnell Douglas Truck Services, Inc. in Fort Washington, Pa., and served as their corporate controller from 1990-92.

Frascona oversees the team's public relations, community relations and new media departments, and works closely with President and General Manager Billy King and Vice President of Business Operations Lara Price in crafting the 76ers external relations activities.

She is one of three females in the NBA who directly oversees a public relations department.

Frascona joined the 76ers on Oct. 31, 1998, as the director of communications after three years at Villanova University. She was elevated to senior director of communications in July 2001 and at that time was given the added responsibility of overseeing the Community Relations and New Media Departments.

At Villanova, her alma mater where she received a communications degree, Frascona served as an associate athletic director for media relations/senior women's administrator. SIXERS® CHARITIES

The ultimate measure of an organization's success is not only the number in the "win" column at the season's end, but what the team stands for year after year in the community.

Founded in 1996, Sixers Charities takes tremendous pride in serving the community and its children. By assisting organizations that focus on youth, recreation, health and education, our hope is to make a positive difference. We have helped create and assist in a wide variety of services, including educational and recreational programs, and provide tickets, autographed and promotional items, and publicity. Most importantly, the personal involvement and dedication of the 76ers family is what we hope will make Philadelphia a better place to live.

As a partner and friend to the children of the Delaware Valley, the 76ers are primarily focused on helping kids succeed in school, form well-rounded lives, and, most of all, have fun. After all, children should have the opportunity to play, grow, dream, and ultimately, "win" at life. The Sixers reach out to area youth in many ways. The franchise's programming covers an incredible range, from monthly reading appearances at local schools, to educational initiatives on the team's web site, to refurbishing playgrounds, to providing scholarships for students. The club touches over 35,000 kids in the Delaware Valley each year.

Children, however, are not the only beneficiaries of good will, as the 76ers are honored to reach Philadelphians in other ways as well. The team supports area hospitals by visiting patients of all ages, hosting annual outings at seniors' centers, sponsoring an adult wheelchair basketball team, and honoring local citizens for outstanding community service at games.

Since Comcast-Spectacor assumed management of the franchise, countless organizations have benefited from the 76ers' commitment. Included in the lengthy list of beneficiaries are the White Williams Scholars, Magee Rehabilitation, Inner City Games, March of Dimes, Philadelphia Public Coaches League, Catholic Youth Organization, and The Ronald McDonald House.

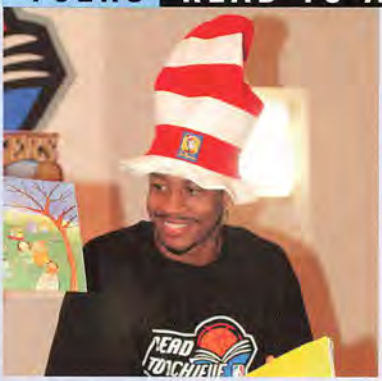
76ERS READ TO ACHIEVE



presented by

The NBA's Read to Achieve program is designed to help young people develop a life-long love of reading. Read to Achieve promotes the value of reading and online literacy, as well as encouraging families and adults to read regularly with young people. The 76ers Read to Achieve program, presented by Mountain Dew, consists of various events including player appearances, school appearances, book drives, and the opening of a reading and learning center.

Throughout the season, players, coaches and members of the Sixers All-Star reading team visited schools and libraries reaching out to over 4,000 children and donating over 5,000 Scholastic Books. The Sixers All-Star reading team includes members of the 76ers family, local media members, Hip-Hop, Sixers Dance Team members and others.

During the month of March, the Sixers hold book drives at each home game, encouraging fans to bring a new or gently used book to the game. All collected books are donated to Philadelphia READS, which in turn distributes the books to local schools, libraries and community-based organizations. Over 2,500 books were collected this year for Philadelphia READS.

Randomly selected children are chosen at 76ers home games in March to receive a new book from a Sixers player. The kids are escorted onto the court and after the anthem, each kid is handed a Scholastic book from one of his/her favorite Sixers.

As part of the Read to Achieve program, the 76ers unveiled a new reading and learning center at Woodbine Elementary School in New Jersey. The Sixers partnered with a few local companies to complete renovations in the school's library. The renovations included newly painted walls, new furniture, bookshelves, carpeting and, of course, new books and reference materials.

76ERS READ FOR RONALD

The 76ers Read for Ronald program encourages students to read while also offering assistance to sick children and their families by supporting The Philadelphia Ronald McDonald House (The House). The House provides shelter and emotional support for families of critically ill children being treated at area hospitals. Elementary and middle school children collect pledges for each minute read during the month of February.

In seven years, youth representing more than 30 Delaware Valley schools have raised over $700,000 for The House. Participating students receive incentives for reading, including 76ers bookmarks, certificates, and books for their school's library provided by Scholastic, Inc. Ambassador of 76ers Basketball World B. Free, a 76ers player, mascot Hip-Hop and Ronald McDonald, also attend a special awards ceremony at The House for the top readers. Hip-Hop and a guest reader visit the top fundraising school.

NBA COMMUNITY OUTREACH

The dedication of the NBA, its teams and players to the improvement of local communities has a long history and tremendous reach. The League's implementation and execution of outreach based programs has impacted and inspired children and families to develop a life-long love of reading. The entire NBA family has placed reading and children's education at the forefront of its community work by donating millions of dollars, extensive resources, and countless volunteer hours to the promotion and sponsorship of literacy initiatives.

With the Read to Achieve program, the NBA helps to positively impact the reading tendencies of millions of kids on a year-round basis. NBA teams, current and former players and coaches partner with schools and community centers to deliver the Read to Achieve message and to provide critical resources and support to local reading and education programs.

To connect with so many people and communities, Read to Achieve partners with the nation's longest-serving literacy organization, Reading Is Fundamental (RIF), and with the world's largest children's book publisher, Scholastic Inc. Together, over 300,000 books are donated annually through school assemblies, book fairs and at various reading events. In addition, a partnership with Dell provides a necessary focus on technology literacy and has resulted in the creation of more than 60 NBA Reading & Learning Centers, places where children have access to books, technology and supportive reading programs in an encouraging and motivating environment.

As the world's greatest athletes, NBA players are also dedicated to the community and committed to giving back in extraordinary ways. Through their foundations, camp efforts and charitable work, they make a difference for hundreds of non-profit and youth serving organizations. To honor players' outstanding community service accomplishments off the court each month, the NBA recently enhanced its Community Assist Award by announcing that all future winners would receive the David Robinson Plaque. The new award was first presented to the San Antonio Spurs legendary center last season to honor him for the standards he has set in supporting the community. The NBA and WNBA also present an annual Sportsmanship Award to one player at the conclusion of their respective seasons.

In addition to youth education, the NBA also supports numerous causes and organizations that positively impact communities including but not limited to The Thurgood Marshall Scholarship Fund, UNICEF, The National Wheelchair Basketball Association, The National Civil Rights Museum, Gallaudet University, and The National Underground Railroad Freedom Center.

MONTH-BY-MONTH RECAPS

OCTOBER/NOVEMBER (14-4): Despite the impressive debut by off-season acquisition Keith Van Horn, who recorded team-highs in points (19) and rebounds (10), the Sixers dropped their season-opener at Orlando on Oct. 29. The next night, Todd MacCulloch, in his first home game since being re-acquired with Van Horn for Dikembe Mutombo in an August trade, grabbed a career-high 14 rebounds in the home-opening win against Milwaukee. The Sixers followed with three more victories before dropping a Nov. 9 overtime contest versus the Bucks. Derrick Coleman made his season debut on Nov. 19 at New Orleans after recoving from left knee surgery in the offseason and a one-game suspension as Iverson began a streak of four-straight games in which he scored at least 30 points. The 76ers came back from a 22-point first quarter deficit only to lose to the newly relocated Hornets on a David Wesley shot as time expired. The last three games of Iverson's streak concurred with the first three games in which Sixers held the opposition to below 40 percent from the field - all of which were Philadelphia wins. Iverson completed a two-week span in which he averaged 33.5 points per game and led the 76ers to a 7-1 record. For his efforts, Iverson captured back-to-back Player of the Week honors on Nov. 25 and Dec. 2, marking the ninth and 10th such honors of his career. After a one-point win at Washington, the 76ers increased their win streak to seven games to finish the month of November atop the Atlantic Division standings with a 14-4 record.

December (19-12, 5-8): Monty Williams made his Sixers debut in a Dec. 4 victory against Boston, stretching the win streak to eight games (including 11 of the last 12). Meanwhile, the 76ers improved to a perfect 10-0 at home during the season, their longest streak since the 1966-67 season with 22 consecutive home wins. After losses in Texas to San Antonio and Houston on consecutive nights, the Sixers suffered their first home defeat of the season in a 92-88 loss to Seattle (12/11), halting the home win-streak at 10 games. Upon completion of a five-game losing streak, the Sixers rattled off three consecutive wins at home. On Dec. 18, Iverson scored a season-best 41 points to lead the Sixers to a 99-94 win against Minnesota. Two nights later, Kenny Thomas, acquired in a three-way trade on Dec. 18 that saw the departures of Art Long, Mark Bryant and a first-round draft choice, made his 76ers debut against the L.A. Lakers in the year's first sellout. Thomas did not disappoint, scoring 11 points and grabbing six rebounds off of the bench in front of the then second-largest crowd for a 76ers game in First Union Center history (21,127). Iverson's 32 points and team-record-tying nine steals helped carry Philadelphia to a 107-104 overtime victory against Kobe Bryant, who poured in 44, and the Lakers. To add to the 76ers joy was the birth of Eric Snow's third son, Jarren Christopher that morning. Following the Lakers game, the Sixers began a stretch with six-straight games away from home. In the second game of the road trip, Philadelphia posted a season-low 69 points in a loss to Utah (12/28). The Sixers ended the year on a positive note by defeating the Clippers for their only win away from home in the month, 1-8, including a six-game road losing streak. Throughout December, only Iverson (11 times) Van Horn (twice) led the Sixers in scoring.

January (25-22, 6-10): The Sixers surrendered 98.2 points per game en route to a season-worst 6-10 record in the month of January. Brian Skinner recorded his first start as a 76er as Keith Van Horn missed the Jan. 2 loss at Phoenix with the stomach flu. In the loss to the Suns, Thomas led the team in points, rebounds and assists. Following a season-long road trip in which they compiled a 1-5 record, the 76ers looked forward to returning to Philadelphia for the next six games, the longest home stand of the season. Coleman recorded a double-double (18 points, 14 rebounds) in his first start of the 2002-03 season, but the Sixers dropped the first back-to-back overtime losses (1/6). Consecutive two-point losses followed, including a Jan. 12 loss to the Magic when the Sixers shot a season-high 60.0 percent. Finally, the Sixers halted their season-long six-game stretch. Iverson scored his 12,000th career point in the second quarter against Boston on Jan. 20, becoming the 11th fastest player in NBA history to reach the plateau. Despite leading by as many as 23 points in the third quarter, the 76ers lost by a heartbreaking 100-99 margin. Skinner sparked a 108-81 thrashing of the Bucks by posting season-highs in points (20) and rebounds (14) at the Bradley Center (1/28) for the Sixers' third win in four games. Van Horn and the 76ers ended the month on a high note as he scored a season-high 31 points in a Jan. 31 home victory against the Heat. After heading into the New Year with a 13-2 home record, the 76ers posted a 2-8 record at the First Union Center in January.

February (33-24, 8-2): The month of February began with the Sixers dropping two significant losses to Minnesota and New Jersey. The 76ers entered the All-Star Break 25-24 after a 15-4 start. Allen Iverson represented the Sixers in the All-Star game in Atlanta, leading the Eastern All-Stars with 35 points in his fourth-straight start. After the break, a different Sixers team emerged. On Feb. 12, the Sixers rolled past Chicago in a 119-111, overtime win at the First Union Center. The victory sparked an eight-game winning streak, with wins at New Jersey, and Chicago, and sweeping a home-and-home stand against Cleveland. The Sixers also collected wins versus Orlando, Memphis, and Utah. On Feb 14, Derrick Coleman scored a season-high 22 points against Orlando, surpassing his previous high of 20 points versus Boston in a December contest. On Feb. 26, Eric Snow recorded his first career triple-double against Memphis. Snow finished with a season-high 22 points, 11 assists and a season-high 10 rebounds. To top the month off, the NBA named Sixers Head Coach Larry Brown the Eastern Conference Coach of the Month for February.

March (44-29, 11-5): Larry Brown earned his second consecutive Coach of the Month honor after guiding the Sixers to an 11-5 record in March, including wins in nine of 12 road games. The daunting March schedule, with 12 of 16 games away from the First Union Center, began with a five-game Western Conference road trek. After a 107-99 loss at Sacramento on March 3, the Sixers bounced back to hold Portland (3/6) to a 76ers opponent low for points in a game since the invention of the shot clock in an 88-60 win. A 27-6 run erased a double-digit fourth quarter deficit on March 12 as Philadelphia came back to beat Indiana 96-93. On March 16, the Sixers posted another comeback victory against a top-ranked Eastern team by stealing a victory at division-leading New Jersey, 92-87. During those key wins, Allen Iverson had an eight-game stretch where he averaged 32.1 points per game and posted 30 or more points seven times. The Sixers closed out the month by clinching their fifth-straight playoff berth in a 118-113 overtime win at Orlando. Iverson had a season-high 42 points and the visitors outscored the Magic 21-6 to conclude the game. With 24 points and 20 rebounds, Kenny Thomas had Philadelphia's first 20-20 performance since Derrick Coleman in 1997.

April (48-34, 4-5): Already without the services of Todd MacCulloch since February with foot neuropathy, the Sixers lost Keith Van Horn and Derrick Coleman each for multiple games in the final month of the regular season. April began with a 108-101 win against Chicago (4/2). Van Horn went down with a strained left plantar fascia in the first period on April 4 against Houston, and a 3-19 performance in the fourth quarter doomed the Sixers to an 88-79 defeat. The highlight of the month came in a 91-74 win against conference-leading Detroit on April 8. Against the Pistons, Iverson scored 37 points, including the 13,000th point of his career, and broke the Sixers single-season steals record set by Steve Mix (212) in 1973-74. Two nights later, Kenny Thomas grabbed 20 rebounds at Boston for the second time this season marking his ninth double-double in the last 11 games. Coleman sat out the next three games, all losses, with a left thigh strain/contusion. The 76ers waited until April 16, the final day of the regular season, to clinch home-court advantage in the first round of the playoffs. A season-best crowd of 21,257 was on hand to send Michael Jordan off in his final NBA game with a 107-87 win by the Sixers against Washington. Thomas posted 10 double-doubles in the season's final 15 contests and ended up with 12.7 points and 11.7 rebounds per game in that span.

NBA Playoffs - First Round vs. New Orleans (4-2): The Sixers defeated New Orleans, 4-2, in the first year of the NBA's best-of-seven First Round format. Allen Iverson started off the playoffs with gusto, scoring a franchise playoff-record 55 points in a 98-90 Game 1 win against the Hornets. Iverson, who is tied for sixth all-time for single-game scoring in a playoff contest, converted on 21-32 field goals. Kenny Thomas' 17 points and 16 rebounds gave the Sixers a 2-0 series lead before the series headed to New Orleans. Baron Davis, who missed Game 2 with a left knee bone bruise, scored 28 points with eight assists to lift the Hornets to a 99-85 win in the first game of their homestand. After Eric Snow scored 17 points and dished out 12 assists in Game 4, the Sixers headed back home with a 3-1 series lead. New Orleans stole Game 5 at the First Union Center, 93-91, after George Lynch scored 12 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter. Iverson's 45 points in the return to the New Orleans Arena finished off the Hornets, 107-103, as the Sixers advanced to the Eastern Conference Semifinals for the fourth time in five years. Jamal Mashburn scored 36 points in a valiant effort to keep the Hornets in the game, but Keith Van Horn tallied 18 points and 18 rebounds to help Philadelphia to victory. Iverson averaged 34.8 points per game against New Orleans for the series, while Snow finished with 12.0 points and 7.3 assists per outing.

NBA Playoffs - Eastern Conference Semifinals vs. Detroit (2-4): Philadelphia fell, 4-2, to top-seeded Detroit in a heartbreaking Eastern Conference Semifinal series that saw two overtime losses and another defeat at the buzzer for the 76ers. The Sixers were within three points, 77-74, in the fourth quarter of Game 1, but Mehmet Okur scored 16 points off the bench to lead Detroit to a 98-87 win. Philadelphia erased a double-digit Game 2 deficit and led for most of the second half before Tayshaun Prince tied the game with 4.2 seconds in regulation. The Pistons outscored the Sixers 12-5 in overtime to take a 2-0 series lead. Allen Iverson had 25 points and 11 assists as the Sixers won their first home game of the series, 93-83. During the third quarter, Philadelphia took a 67-45 lead, their largest of the post-season; Detroit trailed by double-figures the entire second half. Iverson's 36 points, 11 assists and five steals in Game 4 knotted the series at 2-2. A goaltending violation on a Chucky Atkins layup with 0.9 seconds remaining lifted Detroit to a 78-77 Game 5 victory at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Detroit, who opened the game with an 18-4 lead, did not trail until Eric Snow's first three-pointer of the 2003 Playoffs with 9.4 seconds to play gave the Sixers a 77-76 advantage. Iverson converted on only 5-25 field goals, but had nine assists and eight rebounds in the loss. After watching an early 24-10 lead dissolve, the Sixers held off the Pistons to force overtime in Game 6. In the extra session, Detroit built an 89-83 lead before Iverson scored six-straight points to tie the game at 89-89. Chauncey Billups followed with three of his nine overtime points and an Atkins free throw closed out the game as the Pistons triumphed 93-89. Detroit native Derrick Coleman averaged 16.5 points and 11.0 rebounds per contest in the series, while Kenny Thomas also averaged a double-double against the Pistons.

HISTORICAL LOOK AT THE SIXERS

The Philadelphia 76ers franchise actually began in 1949, when six teams from the midwest-based National Basketball League joined the Basketball Association of America to form the 17-team National Basketball Association. One of those teams was the Syracuse Nationals, which eventually became the Philadelphia 76ers. The Nats went 51-13 in their first NBA season under Al Cervi, and won the Eastern Division crown. The team was very successful in Syracuse, reaching the NBA final in both 1950 and 1954 both times losing to the Minneapolis Lakers. They finally broke through in 1955, taking their first, and only, NBA title by defeating the Fort Wayne Pistons 92-91 on April 10, 1955, taking the series 4-3. The team posted winning records in 11 of its 14 seasons in Syracuse.

The Nats were purchased by Philadelphian Irv Kosloff and Ike Richman in the spring of 1963, and the NBA approved the franchise shift (May 22) and name change (Aug. 6) from the Nationals to the 76ers, returning professional basketball to Philadelphia (The Philadelphia Warriors had left for San Francisco following the 1961-62 season). Nats star Dolph Schayes was named the Sixers first coach, and the team went 34-46 in its first season, finishing in third place. Guard Hal Greer was the star of that first Sixers team, averaging 23.3 ppg and becoming the first Sixers All-Star.

The first turning point for the franchise occurred on January 15, 1965, when the club acquired star center Wilt Chamberlain from the San Francisco Warriors for three players and cash. Chamberlain continued his NBA dominance, becoming the first Sixer to lead the NBA in scoring and rebounding while leading the team to its first Eastern Division title with a 55-25 record in '65-66.

Former Nats star and coach Alex Hannum succeeded Dolph Schayes as head coach prior to the '66-67 season, and the team picked up right where it left off, winning the Eastern Division title with a 68-13 record. The team then took the NBA title by defeating the San Francisco Warriors 4-2, clinching the series with a 125-122 win in Game 6 on April 24 at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

The '67-68 season saw the Sixers move from their old home, the Philadelphia Civic Center, to the new Spectrum and Jack Ramsay became the team's first GM. They opened the building with a 103-87 win over the Los Angeles Lakers on October 18, 1967. Philly finished that season with a 62-20 record, taking their third straight Eastern Division title, but lost to the Boston Celtics 4-3 in the Eastern Conference Finals. Chamberlain etched his name yet again in the NBA recordbook in '67-68 by recording the NBA's only triple-double-double with 25 rebounds, 21 assists and 22 points in a 131-121 win over Detroit on February 2, 1968. Following the season, Ramsay succeeded Alex Hannum as Sixers head coach, and became the first person in team history to hold the dual role of head coach and general manager. The team just missed its fourth straight division title in '67-68, finishing second with a 55-27 mark, and was dethroned by the Boston Celtics in the opening round of the playoffs. Don DeJardin succeeded Ramsay as GM in the 1970-74 period.

Age and injuries then took their toll on the franchise. The '71-72 team became the first Sixers team to finish below .500 (30-52), and the 1972-73 squad became one of the more infamous teams in league annals, posting the worst mark in NBA history at 9-73 with Roy Rubin and Kevin Loughery splitting the coaching chores. Gene Shue's appointment as head coach on June 15, 1973 and the selection of Doug Collins with the first pick of the '73 NBA Draft began the Sixers return as an NBA power. Pat Williams' reign as GM ran from 1974 to 1986. They also added a key frontcourt player with the signing of free agent George McGinnis on July 10, 1975. Collins and McGinnis formed the foundation for the Sixers mid-'70's rise, as Collins averaged 17.9 ppg and garnered four All-Star game selections in his injury-shortened eight-season career, while McGinnis averaged 21.6 ppg and a pair of All-Star nods in his three Sixers campaigns.

The Sixers made its most storied move, on October 20, 1976 when the team purchased the contract of Julius Erving from the New York Nets.

The team steadily improved, highlighted by a 50-32 Atlantic Division title in '76-77 and a playoff run that saw them reach the '77 NBA Finals, where they were turned back by former coach Jack Ramsay and the Portland Trail Blazers in six games.

On November 3, 1977, Billy Cunningham replaced Gene Shue as Sixers head coach. The team took its second-straight Atlantic Division crown with a 55-27 record, but lost to the Washington Bullets in the Eastern Conference Finals.

However, the stage was now set, and their run continued as one of the elite teams in the NBA over the better part of the next decade, winning no less than 52 games in seven-straight seasons between 1979-80 and 1985-86, including three appearances in the NBA Finals. Their most memorable season during that era was 1982-83. The team, led by Erving, Moses Malone and All-Star guard Maurice Cheeks, posted a 65-17 regular season record and went on a 12-1 rampage through the NBA playoffs. They capped the championship off with a 4-0 sweep of the Los Angeles Lakers in the Finals. Harold Katz purchased the team from Fitz Dixon in July of 1981, and helped guide them to the title in his second ownership season.

Billy Cunningham continued at the helm until June 14, 1985, when he was replaced by Matt Guokas. The team, still led by Malone and Erving and a budding star named Charles Barkley, continued its run as one of the NBA's elite, finishing with a 54-28 mark in '85-86. The GMs were John Nash, 1986-90, Shue 1990-92, and Jim Lynam 1992-94.

More recent successes have included the 1989-90 Atlantic Division title (under Lynam), the club's 2,000th franchise victory on December 13, 1994, over the Miami Heat, and the exciting playoff runs in both 1998-99 and 1999-00. John Lucas was hired as head coach and general manager on June 14, 1994. The sale of the club from Katz to Comcast Spectacor was approved by the NBA on April 24, 1996. Brad Greenberg was named general manager on May 8, 1996, and Johnny Davis replaced Lucas as coach June 10, 1996. After going 22-60 in 1996-97, Larry Brown was named coach on May 5, 1997. Billy King, who was first hired as Director of Player Personnel, was promoted to General Manager on May 19, 1998.

The Sixers returned to the NBA Finals in 2001 for the first time since 1983. The team also captured its first Atlantic Division title since 1990 and the first Eastern Conference crown since 1983. That same season, with Allen Iverson being named MVP, Aaron McKie Sixth Man of the Year, Dikembe Mutombo Defensive Player of the Year and Larry Brown Coach of the Year, the Sixers became the first team to win four major awards in a single season.

Following the team's fifth-straight Playoff appearance in 2003, Larry Brown resigned on May 26, 2003, while Billy King was promoted to team President. A member of Brown's staff for six seasons, Randy Ayers was named the Sixers' head coach on June 20, 2003.

CLUB NICKNAME

The late Walter Stahlberg, of West Collingswood, New Jersey, won a contest to name the club in 1963. The choice of the club's nickname was announced on August 6, 1963. There were almost 500 different suggestions among the entries and Stahlberg was one of several who picked the 76ers. However his accompanying 25-word explanation was deemed the best by the judges, and he and his wife received an all-expense trip to the West Coast to see the 76ers play San Francisco.

HISTORY OF 76ERS GENERAL MANAGERS

The 76ers didn't have a general manager after the team debuted in Philadelphia in May 1963. Attorney Ike Richman performed some of the duties of the job between 1963 and 1966, but it wasn't until Jack Ramsay was named to the position in 1966-67 that the team had a GM. He maintained that job until 1970-71 when Don DeJardin took over. He was succeeded by Pat Williams who kept the post through 1986. John Nash took over 1986-90, then Gene Shue 1990-92, Jim Lynam 1992-94, John Lucas 1994-96 and Brad Greenberg in the 1996-97 season. No one had the title in 1997-98 with Larry Brown and Billy King performing the duties. In the summer of 1998, Pat Croce promoted King to general manager.

LOGO AND UNIFORM HISTORY

1997 – PRESENT

The Sixers unveiled a completely new look including the first major logo change since becoming the Philadelphia 76ers in August of 1963. In keeping with the traditional red and blue, the logo was "modernized" by adding silver, gold and black. For the first time in franchise history, the Sixers wore black uniforms on the road. Trimmed in red and gold, the jersey that features the word "SIXERS" on the front with white numbers trimmed in red on the back. At home, a white jersey features black numbers trimmed in red. Philadelphia added a hot new second road uniform combining the styles of the old and the new. The blue jersey sports a stylish new cut and is full of tradition from the great Sixers teams of the 1960's and 70's. Breaking away from the norm, the 76ers wore retro jerseys on Monday, March 14, 2003, honoring the 1982-83 championship team as part of the 40th Anniversary celebration. Philadelphia, one of eight NBA teams to sport the retro jerseys in conjunction with an NBA initiative called Hardwood Classics Night, donned their red 1982-83 road uniforms in a 90-79 win against the Portland Trailblazers at the First Union Center.

1994 – 97 (64-182)

This uniform was actually a throwback to the classic Sixers look. Designed by Lucy Loeb, the front featured "SIXERS" in a more ornate block lettering. This garb was white with red and blue trim at home and red with white and blue trim on the road.

1991 – 94 (86-160)

The Sixers uniform was redesigned by Champion Products and was a departure from the classic Sixers uniform. The design featured multicolored stars against a royal blue field that curved up from shorts to the jersey. The background of the away uniform remained red.

1978 – 91 (679-387)

The NBA begins to regulate uniform changes more closely. A rule is installed by the league requiring teams to use an exclusive outfitter and alert the NBA one year in advance of a design change. This uniform becomes the Sixers' hallmark, with the numeral surrounded by stars on the shorts. The road color returned to red. The uniforms were manufactured first by Wilson, then by Sand Knit. The 76ers played more games in this uniform (1,066) than any other in the history of the franchise.

1977 – 78 (55-27)

The lettering on the jersey was readjusted, with home uniforms lettered in blue and outlined in white and red, while away uniforms were royal blue with white lettering in red trim.

1976-77 (50-32)
Another one-shot uniform surfaced, this time with a theme. In honor of the Bicentennial, the team turned to the cursive lettering and trim numerals of the 1970-71 season. The new uniforms were designed by Pat Williams, Al Domenico, Billy Cunningham and Sonder Levitt Advertising.

1971-76 (144-266)
SonderLevitt Advertising designed a uniform that had a much longer lifespan than its predecessor. With the new art deco-like lettering, the uniforms retained the star-inset blue side stripe, a graphic element that remained a feature through the 70's. Away uniforms were royal blue with white side stripes and stars.

1970-71 (47-35)
With its red-in-blue and cursive lettering, the Sixers' next official home uniform (the old red garb was retained for away games), did not please Sixers suppliers. Midseason trades meant impossible turn-around times for these custom-sewn, flowing script uniforms. In the middle of the season a switch is made and "Seventy Sixers", in script, replaces "PHILA" on the front of the uniform.

1966-70 (227-100)
The Sixers went to the straightforward look during their first championship run. Simple block letters with the traditional "PHILA" on the front replaced the star-spangled banner look. Road uniforms became red with blue lettering and white trim.

1965-66 (55-25)
A two-tone uniform with a high waistband and long, baggy trunks was introduced. The players considered it flashy and uncomfortable to play in and it was abandoned after one season.

1963-65 (74-86)
The Sixers opened their run in Philadelphia with a Betsy Ross-inspired uniform. Adorned with a circle of stars on both the shorts and the back of the jersey surrounding the player's number, the stars quickly became a hallmark of the Sixers uniforms. The road uniform was dark blue with red lettering and numbers. Midway through the '64-65 season the style of the letters and numbers was changed.

76ERS NUMBERS WORN MOST AND LEAST

Since 1963-64 when the franchise relocated to Philadelphia, the No. 20 and No. 11 jerseys have been worn by 15 different players in the 76ers history, while 14 different players have sported the Nos. 12, 23 and 25. In addition, No. 14 has been worn by 13 players and 12 players have worn the No. 22. Conversely, 10 numbers have never been worn and 2, 15, 51 and 76 have been worn by only one player.

76ERS DRAFT SELECTIONS

76 DRAFTED PLAYERS MAKE ROSTER

Since the Philadelphia 76ers first draft in 1964 through 2002, 76 selections have played at least one game for the Sixers. The best year was 1973 when seven players (Doug Collins, Mike Bantom, Allan Bristow, George McGinnis, Caldwell Jones, Harvey Catchings and Rod Freeman) played for the 76ers at some point during their career. Alvaro Teheran, the Sixers second round selection in 1991, failed to make the team. In 1998 no draftees made it, but the 76ers had a pre-draft deal with the L.A. Clippers to select Charles Smith and trade him for the sixth pick in the draft, Hersey Hawkins on draft-day. Neither player drafted in 2002 (Jiri Welsch and Sam Clancy) played with the Sixers during the 2002-03 season as Welsch was traded to Golden State and Clancy spent the entire season on the injured list.

76ERS DRAFT SELECTIONS

76 DRAFTED PLAYERS MAKE ROSTER

Since the Philadelphia 76ers first draft in 1964 through 2002, 76 selections have played at least one game for the Sixers. The best year was 1973 when seven players (Doug Collins, Mike Bantom, Allan Bristow, George McGinnis, Caldwell Jones, Harvey Catchings and Rod Freeman) played for the 76ers at some point during their career. Alvaro Teheran, the Sixers second round selection in 1991, failed to make the team. In 1998 no draftees made it, but the 76ers had a pre-draft deal with the L.A. Clippers to select Charles Smith and trade him for the sixth pick in the draft, Hersey Hawkins on draft-day. Neither player drafted in 2002 (Jiri Welsch and Sam Clancy) played with the Sixers during the 2002-03 season as Welsch was traded to Golden State and Clancy spent the entire season on the injured list.

76ERS BANNER YEAR ON THE ROAD

The 76ers of 1976-77 (632,994) were the biggest road attraction in NBA history until 1984-85 (in 1995-96, 1996-97, and 1997-98 Chicago sold out every road game). They drew 33 sellouts in 41 outings for a 15,439 average. In Buffalo they drew the largest opening crowd in the Braves' history two days after Julius Erving was signed. They drew the largest crowd of the year in Kansas City and the two largest in New Orleans including a then record-breaking 27,383. Only in Buffalo, Kansas City and the Nets did they fail to have any sellouts. The 76ers smallest road crowd was 8,792 at Buffalo in a rescheduled snowed-out game. Their only other crowd under 10,938 was a 9,633 total in their first game with the Nets. They also had sellouts in all nine road playoff games to wind up an unparalleled record in the league's history at that time.

OVER ONE MILLION FANS SEE SIXERS AT HOME

In 2000-01, the Sixers drew one million fans (1,077,287) at home for the first time in the club's history during the team's 2001 run to the NBA Finals.

HOME RECORDS IN 2002

For the first time in the team's history, the 76ers drew 20,000-plus to every game at the First Union Center during the 2001-02 season. The club also set franchise marks for sellouts (25), average (20,560) and total attendance (842,776).

The 76ers have set attendance records five of the last six seasons. Much of this success can be attributed to inventive giveaways, including the Allen Iverson Celebriduck, given away on Jan. 11, 2002.
